Chicago in the Dark Tonight

WGN News

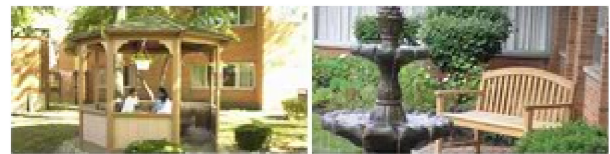

March 26, 2011

CHICAGO, IL

It's lights out for much of Chicago's skyline tonight as the city takes part in Earth Hour 2011. ComEd officials along with students from the Chicago Conservation Corps will flip the switch at 8:30pm at the Merchandise Mart. The Chicago landmark is the largest LEED-certified building in the U.S. Hundreds of other city buildings will go dark for one hour including Navy Pier, Willis Tower and the Wrigley building. Earth hour started in 2007 by WWF to take a stand against climate change. Millions of people in more than 130 countries and thousands of cities have pledged to participate around the world this year.
